

TURKISH UPRISING FEARED IF PEACE PARLEY ISN'T HELD

Situation in Constantinople Increasingly Serious Today.

Paris, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—The situation between the Kemalists and the allies at Constantinople remains serious, but without any new developments, according to the latest messages received today by the French foreign office from the Near East.

The attitude of the Ankara government, which has been growing progressively stiffer of late, is said here to depend largely on whether the Lausanne peace conference is to be held as originally scheduled, or postponed, and the French observers fear hostile moves by the Turks if a delay is finally determined upon.

ITALY WITH ALLIES

Rome, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Premier Mussolini has telegraphed to the Italian high commissioner in Constantinople stating that he favored a united front by the allies regarding Turkey. The premier announced the sending of this message at yesterday's cabinet meeting. Turkey had beaten Greece, but could not claim to have defeated the entire, the premier said.

The Italian warship Archimede was ordered by the premier to remain at Constantinople and he gave instructions that in case of necessity other vessels should be held in readiness to protect Italian nationals.

The suggestion for a postponement of the Lausanne conference, the premier added, had come from Great Britain and Italy had agreed to it on condition that the delay be brief.

PASHA PROTESTS DELAY

Paris, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Ismet Pasha, foreign minister in the Turkish nationalist government, has informed the allied government that any delay in holding the Lausanne peace conference would be a disaster, as it would be interpreted by the Ankara assembly and the Kemalists as a sign of hostility against the Turks, and an indication that the allies did not intend to live up to the conditions of the Mudania armistice.

CABLE HAS BEEN CUT

London, Nov. 9.—London morning newspapers failed to receive their usual quota of news from Constantinople today because of the cutting of the Eastern Telegraph Company's cable on the Kemal side of the Chanak zone by the Turks and their refusal to permit the company to repair it.

So far as was known here this morning no overt or hostile act has been taken at Constantinople, either by the allies or the Kemalists. But the situation is known to be tense and the insistence of the nationalists on their demands for allied evacuation have made it increasingly critical.

COMMERCE PARALYZED

Smyrna, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Commerce is paralyzed throughout Asia Minor. The banks of Smyrna are closing and the Kemalists have sealed the vaults of most of the banking institutions because they would not furnish the nationalist authorities with lists of their Greek and Armenian accounts. Several American tobacco companies have suspended operations and are preparing to transfer their stocks to the United States.

The only American firm which is continuing to do business is the Standard Oil company, whose products are paid for by the Turks in Bolshevik gold.

The order for all the banks to furnish lists of their Greek and Armenian accounts was issued yesterday by the Kemal authorities. Most of them refused and their vaults were sealed by armed Turkish guards. The National Bank of Turkey voluntarily closed its doors on the announced grounds that there no longer was any business. The Kemalists have drawn up plans for the reconstruction of the city but no funds are available for work of any kind.

AMBOY LIQUOR OWNERS JAILED IN CO. BASTILE

Couldn't Pay Fines Assessed in Judge Crabtree's Court

Vilas and William Bee, brothers, and Walter Newhausen, who reside in the vicinity of Amboy, were taken into the county jail yesterday afternoon on information filed by Sheriff Frank Schoenholtz, charging them with the possession and transportation of intoxicating liquor. The Bee brothers were fined $100 and costs by Judge John B. Crabtree and Newhausen was fined $200 and costs. The trio were unable to pay the amount of their fine and were remanded to the county jail.

Last Tuesday, the three men were arraigned before Justice George Hines in Amboy and were fined $100 and costs for being intoxicated. Unable to pay their fines, they were sent to the county jail at Dixon. Sheriff Schoenholtz secured bench warrants from County Judge Crabtree and held the three until yesterday afternoon when they were arraigned in county court.

Mayor Vaughan and City Attorney Leach of Amboy announce that the arrest of the men is the first step in a determined campaign to clean Amboy and vicinity of bootleggers.

MARSHALS GUARD BALLOTS CAST IN COOK CO. TUES.

Democrats Charge Attempt to Count in County Judge.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—With the official canvass of Tuesday's election in Chicago postponed until next Monday, Deputy United States Marshals today watched the vaults in the city hall, where the ballots, tally sheets and other records were locked up.

The deputies were assigned to watch the vaults when democratic county leaders charged that persistent clerks disclosed a plot to count out Edmund K. Jareke, democratic candidate for county judge, and re-elect County Judge Frank S. Righeimer in the official canvass.

Martin J. O'Brien, democratic county chairman, and other leaders appealed to United States Marshal Levy to protect the records, which had been turned over to the election commission, Righeimer appointee. Postponement of the official count, simultaneously with the reported departure of Judge Righeimer from Chicago, was severely criticized by Chairman O'Brien. The canvass was postponed after one precinct had been completed, the democrats charged.

In addition to the victory of Coroner Peter M. Hoffman, republican candidate for sheriff, the unofficial returns gave the republican ticket apparent success in the race for clerk of the probate and county clerk, chairman of the board of the review, and the board of the assessors.

These same returns gave the republicans eight members of the county board, three from the city and five from the county, and democrats seven including the presidency. Republicans expressed some hope that the majority in the county board would result in the appointment of a republican to succeed Coroner Hoffman for the next two years.

Rebuttal Evidence in Hammer Slaying

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 9.—Rebuttal testimony by the first of probably twenty witnesses for the state was forecast for today at the trial of Mrs. Clara Phillips for the slaying of Mrs. Tiberta Tremaine Meadows, 20 year old widow, who was beaten to death with a hammer.

The defense rested yesterday after a group of alienists had testified they believed the defendant insane, affected with "psychic epilepsy."

The prosecution announced it had already under subpoena fourteen rebuttal witnesses and that the total might reach twenty. A number of state witnesses were expected to be experts in mental and nerve diseases who it was stated would attempt to prove the defendant sane.

LEGISLATURE IN CONTROL OF G. O. P. COUNT SHOWS

Senate and House Both Remain Under Sway of Republicans

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Illinois republicans will hold approximately 49 of the 51 seats in the next senate and from 96 to 98 of the 153 seats in the lower house, latest returns from Tuesday's election show.

For the first time in the state's history a woman will take her seat in the legislature, and another woman will go to congress. Mrs. Winnifred Mason Huck, daughter of the late William E. Mason, will take her father's seat when President Harding calls the congress in special session late this month. Mrs. Grove, republican, elected to the state house of representatives, Mrs. Mary E. Busey, republican, elected as a University trustee in the third woman victor in the state ticket.

The republican congressional delegation has lost four of its members as a result of democratic victories bringing the total democratic in the next session to seven. The republicans kept twenty-two seats, including the two at large.

United States marshals today are guarding the election board vaults in the Cook county building following charges of democratic leaders that a plot was under way to "steal" the election. The United States authorities were called in on the ground that the returns in the vaults included those for congressional races. Democratic leaders openly claimed that an attempt was being made to "count in" County Judge Frank Righeimer, who apparently was defeated by Jareke, democrat, by more than 30,000 votes.

"Battling Siki" in Bad with Federation

Paris, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Battling Siki, the Senegalese fighter who sometime ago defeated Georges Carpentier, is in trouble with the boxing federation, as the result of stating another boxer's manager. Siki last night acted as second to Ericole De Balzac, the French middleweight champion, who was fighting Maurice Prunier. In the 11th round, when Balzac took the count, Siki, apparently displeased at the result, crossed the ring and struck Prunier on the head with a shoe. The spectators were furious at the assault and tried to get at Siki. The Senegalese was rescued, however, and escorted out of the hall by police.

It was announced from the ring that a complaint would be filed with the French Boxing Federation.

Amoy, China, Scene of Panic Following Attack Last Night

Amoy, China, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—A sudden attack last night by the military faction headed by Chang Tse-Peng against Hi Hain-Chi, who has the support of the Peking government, threw the city into a panic. Li took refuge in flight after Chang had seized his headquarters.

All the native schools are closed, business is paralyzed, the foreign settlement is congested with Chinese refugees from the navy quarter and American and British gun boats, lying close in shore, are protecting foreign interests.

BIG LIQUOR ROBBERY IN PEORIA DISCOVERED BY FEDERAL OFFICIALS

$500,000 Worth of Bonded Liquor Removed from Distillery.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 9.—Robbery of possibly more than 25,000 gallons of whiskey valued at $500,000 from the Woolner Distillery here today uncovered by authorities when a tunnel was discovered under a roadway, and leading to a whiskey warehouse.

In the tunnel was found a hose which had been used to syphon out the liquor. The passageway had the appearance of having been dug several months ago. The robbery resembles that made at the Corning Distillery here two months ago, but it is much the largest ever recorded here.

G. W. Grievens, deputy field agent of the internal revenue department, Chicago, who inspected the tunnel last night, left for Chicago today ostensibly to report the robbery to headquarters and begin a wide investigation. But Church, government agent at the warehouse, said that the stolen liquor might aggregate even more than 25,000 gallons.

Put Booze in Bottles Twenty-three thousand barrels, or 149,000 gallons, of high grade bonded whiskey and gin is being placed in quart bottles at the Corning Distillery to prevent loss by shrinkage and a possible repetition of the syphon robbery, it was learned today.

The liquor which has been in the Corning warehouse since prohibition began, shows a shrinkage of at least eleven gallons to the barrel since government officials bonded it, it was announced.

Two huge warehouses sold by the Corning Company to the United States Food Products Company at the advent of prohibition have been purchased for storing the bottled goods.

Charged wares and armed guards are being used to forestall bootleggers and whiskey thieves.

The Corning Distillery was recently robbed of several thousand gallons of whiskey. A tunnel was dug under a roadway to a warehouse and a garden hose used to syphon the liquor from barrels.

That the robbers worked over an extended period is indicated by the sides of the tunnel being boarded and the use of a fish cord signal system.

Two Archbishops to Be Named Cardinals

Rome, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Pope Pius has decided to postpone the appointment of the new American cardinals to a consistory to be held next year, it was learned today. The report that both Archbishop Mundelein, Chicago, and Archbishop Hayes of New York would at that time receive the red hat, however, was confirmed in an authoritative quarter.

Meanwhile notice has been sent to Monsignor Giovanni Bonzano, apostolic delegate at Washington, with regard to his being raised to the purple in the consistory to be held Dec. 11. It is expected this notice will reach Monsignor Bonzano next week and that he will shortly afterward leave for Rome.

Only Woman Elected to Legislature Will Not Heed Beer Vote

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove, the first woman elected to the Illinois legislature, let it be known today that she would not be bound by the overwhelming sentiment of Illinois voters today for wine and beer as expressed at the polls on Tuesday. She announced she would oppose any legislation attempting to enforce the mandate.

"I am mighty glad the soldiers' bonus won, however," she said, "for it is a good thing and I have always been for it."

"I believe that men and women in the legislature will be able to keep house for the state better than men alone could do it. The men can handle the business affairs while the women can handle the social affairs."

"I will devote much of my attention to measures for the protection of the home and for the benefit of women and children. I also favor anything which will further the rights of women."

Campaign Expenses Reported By Couple

Washington, Nov. 9.—Among campaign expenditure statements received today by the secretary of senate was that of Albert J. Beveridge, defeated republican candidate for senator in Indiana, who reported that in the general elections he received no contributions but spent $4,197.35 all given to the Indiana republican state committee except $197.35, which he paid for hotel, traveling and other personal expenses.

Henrik Shipstead, reporting on his successful campaign of Farmer Labor from Minnesota said he had received contributions of $1,217.87, all in small amounts, the largest being $250 given by Mrs. Harold Baker of Renville, Minn. His expenditures were given as $1,201.95, which included $300 he paid for an automobile to be used by him in his campaign.

INFORMATION IN MURDER OF TWO BEFORE JUSTICE

Three Indictments Are Expected in New Jersey Crime.

By Associated Press Leased Wire New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 9.—The information on which the state of New Jersey expects to obtain indictments of three persons for the killing of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, was to be laid before Supreme Court Justice Parker and grand jury foreman Gibb by Deputy Attorney General Mott today at Somerville.

Persons close to the authorities say that the investigators have identified the man who Mrs. Jane Gibson says she saw shoot Mrs. Mills and the rector. The authorities will ask that he be indicted for first degree murder. They will seek also to indict the "woman in gray" for first degree murder, on the grounds that she was an accomplice, but did not actually kill either Dr. Hall or Mrs. Mills. The third man under suspicion is said to be a man of the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, of which Dr. Hall was the pastor. They say he drove the automobile which trailed Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills to the Phillips farm where they were slain and also that he has concealed information from the authorities.

MAY TAKE SEVERAL WEEKS TO GET JURY IN MURDER HEARING

Many Veniremen Examined in Herrin Cases Started Wednesday.

Marion, Ill., Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—By electing Sheriff Melvin Thaxton and the entire republican ticket, which was supported by the mining workers' union, the people of Williamson county "have rendered a verdict in favor of a fair trial for every miner indicted in connection with the Herrin mine killings," Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois Miners Union made this declaration, in a statement here today.

Marion, Ill., Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Examination of the veniremen from whom will be chosen the jury to decide the fate of the first five men on trail here in circuit court on charges of murder, brought in connection with the twenty-three mine killings of last June, was to continue today.

Every one of the thirty-one jurors questioned yesterday offered an excuse for not being able to serve, but few of the excuses were accepted by the court. Among those called for examination yesterday was J. J. Nicholson, a farmer, his son Clarence, and his grandson, the son being the only one of the three held for jury service.

Witnesses for the state were informed by State's Attorney Duty yesterday that they would not have to return until the selection of the jury had been completed, which it is expected, may require several weeks. In addition to the state's attorney, Assistant Attorneys General C. W. Middlekauff and Oris Glenn, and Attorney General E. J. Brundage will represent the prosecution in this trial.

Miners Have Seven Angus W. Kerr, chief counsel of the miners' organization of Illinois, has charge of the defense and is assisted by six other attorneys.

The five defendants to be tried in connection with the death of Howard Hoffman, an employee of the Southern Illinois Coal Company, near the mine at which the killings occurred June 27 and 28 last, are: O. S. Carnagi and Leva Mann, each being held in jail without bond, except Carnagi. These five remained of a list of 48, after State's Attorney Delos Duty had nolle prossed the indictments issued against the others charged with the killing of Hoffman.

Among those whose cases were nolle prossed yesterday are Jesse Childers, Phillip Fontanetta, Oscar Howard and James Brown, negro. These also had been held in jail without bond. Each of the five defendants now on trial are facing more than one charge of murder in connection with the mine killings. Clark, the first man to be arrested after the grand jury investigation had been started has been indicted nine times on charges of murder. He is accused of having fired the shot that killed C. K. McDowell, superintendent of the wrecked strip mine, and the first victim to lose his life, on the death march from the mine. Seven indictments charging murder have been issued against Grace, five against Hiller, four against Carnagi and five against Mann.

When the trial was opened yesterday several motions were offered by the defense in an effort to free the defendants. Save one, the motions were overruled by Circuit Judge Hartwell, who deferred his decision on a motion to quash the indictments brought on the grounds that the grand jury had been illegally selected, and that the grand jurors had been influenced by newspapers which published statements of Attorney General Brundage.

Chicago Authorities Want Confidence Man Held in Oregon Jail

R. S. Ray, alias Howard, alias Jackson, who is held in the county jail at Oregon on a charge of attempting to operate a confidence game, has thus far been unable to secure bonds in the amount of $1,000 to secure his release. Ray, with a partner, about a month ago attempted to "fleece" Ralph Johnson, Palmyra township farmer, out of a large sum of money through the operation of a "four card monte" game. He was arrested by Sheriff George Banning about two weeks later near Oregon.

Sheriff Banning and State's Attorney James McDowell were in Chicago early this week conferring with Chief Hughes of the detective bureau. It is said Ray has a police record in Chicago and there is a possibility that he will be turned over to the authorities of that city in a few days.

London Papers Have Comment on Election

London, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—The comeback made by the democrats in the American elections last Tuesday is explained to British readers by their newspapers in many ways, and the speculation which the editorial writers indulge in is diversified. Some think the pendulum merely swung back, but others interpret the voting as revealing widespread dissatisfaction with the Harding administration, with many of its works, including the tariff and the enforcement of prohibition.

PIONEERS

The shades of Magellan and his venturesome crew could sympathize with Capt. Norman Macmillan and Capt. Maillans, who came to grief while trying to fly around the world.
The seaplane of these two aviators was wrecked in the Bay of Bengal while they were engaged in a round-the-world flight organized by the London Daily News. Telling of their terrible experiences they say:

"Below us were sharks; near the land crocodiles. Would we float near enough to ground our inverted top hamper and signal some one ashore, or risk swimming for it? Then our hopes were shattered, for an under-current caught our submerged planes and fuselage, and faster than we could near land, we were pulled away from it. We were utterly helpless and at the mercy of the wind and tide."

But Magellan had no friendly steam launch to search for him in his most hazardous times as was the case with these modern voyagers who were found and rescued. He did not even know for a certainty that the earth was round and that he would not sail over its edge into space.

His was a remarkable perseverance which could overcome the doubt and discouragement from the seemingly endless expanse of water, the utter helplessness from the prolonged calms, the suspense of watchfulness against attacks by warlike savages, the scarcity of fresh water, the ravages of scurvy and other diseases caused by lack of proper food. The modern pioneer has the easiest time of it.

WHEN SCHOOLING IS UNNEC-ESSARY

Lawrence Perricone, a 21 year old lad of St. Louis, asked the circuit court to compel a publisher to render a financial accounting on the publication of the song, "Call Me Back, Pal of Mine," which he claimed to have written, but which statement the publisher partly denied. The publisher contended that Perricone had only a grammar school education, which was not sufficient to write a ballad.

Perricone's attorney maintained that education is not necessary for writing a popular ballad. He had several song writers in court, intending to put them on the stand to prove his contention.

When writers of popular airs are ready to admit that education is not essential to their particular branch of what is said to be literature, we feel that we should go a little farther than Perricone's counsel, and hold that it would be impossible for education to produce them.

WORLDS, AND WORLDS AND WORLDS

The wonders of the heavens are far more wonderful than the slightest dreams of fanciful child or imaginative adult. The planets visible are countless, and there are countless lights which, as yet, human eye has not seen.

Scientists have just discovered that the Magellanic cloud in the southern hemisphere is a vast universe of itself. Hundreds of stars are 10,000 times brighter than the sun.

The Magellanic cloud is estimated to be 110,000 light years distant from the earth, and one light year is 6,000, 000,000,000 miles. The linear diameter is 15,000 times six trillions.

Is space infinite? Is distance infinite? Is the number of stars infinite?
Our little earth is but a pigmy in the universe smaller in comparison with these heavenly bodies than the atomic rebel is to it.

When we speculate on all creation,
how can we be proud in thought?

Puny human moths floundering in infinite light and infinite darkness!

AN ACCIDENTAL HERO

Z. B. Kassad of New Orleans is a hero. He was awarded a Spanish military cross for bravery on the Moro-can front, where he was serving in the Spanish army. But Kassad explains his spectacular feat of daring as an "accident."

"At Tetuan," he says, "our regiment charged up a long hill to the position of the Moors at the top. I was running low and shooting and was just about to the top when the Moors broke from cover and I saw that I was all alone."

"Did you see that crazy American?" an officer yelled to another and he rushed up to me, patted me on the back and said 'Good boy! wait right here!' Pretty soon a general came along and pinned this cross on me.
Honestly, I didn't know I was alone out there in front until after the battle was all over."

A true explanation, no doubt, as far as it goes. The hero modestly ignores the fact that he found himself facing the enemy alone at the top of that bullet-swept hill for the simple reason that he hadn't hesitated and hadn't looked back to see whether the rest of the fellows were coming along.
And there was no accident in that.
That was character.

NEW CRISIS IN THE NEAR EAST

It is the general opinion of historical and diplomatic authorities that a terrible universal war was averted by the Mudania agreement. But authorities are not agreed that the settlement is permanent, or can be permanent, and some think the great crisis for the orient and the accident is only postponed.

Europe is walled by the Turkish-Russian alliance, and this wall even cuts through southern Europe.
Franklin Bouillon says that great warships will never again dominate the orient. Apparently, the accident is at the mercy of the orient for the time being.

The allies themselves are mistrustful of one another. Several of them evidently are parties to secret treaties or understandings. All of them appear to be seeking territorial or other material advantages. The league of nations "open treaties openly arrived at" is a joke.

It was enough to avert a horrible war. But such a distinguished author and observer as Lothrop Stoddard, author of "The Rising Tide of Color," predicts that the issue will rise anew, as a world problem, in a generation.

The east and west are meeting in many lands and climes. If the east becomes somewhat occidental and the west somewhat oriental, in points of view, they should find a middle ground. Let's be optimistic enough to believe that they will.

were three.

Would you like to have some?"

"Yes, thank you," answered Nan-

"Well, as to that," replied Jack.

TOP-HEAVY ODDS

By Berton Braley

SAID old Jim Budd, the gambler: "I've often staked my wad,
And watched the wheel come even, when I have backed the odd;
I've played the racin' ponies, I've plunged a heap at stud,
There wasn't any game of chance that frightened Jimmie Budd.
I like the thrill of gamblin', it's breath of life to me,
I'll take a shot at anything an' let my money free,
I'll shove my stack across the board if there's a chance to win,
But I won't gamble on this stuff they're sellin' now as gin!"

"I've backed the fare outfits, I've rolled the bones as well,
I've won an' lost more heaps of jack than I would care to tell;
I've took my losses smilin', the way a guy should do,
At any game I've ever seen that's either old or new.
My limit was the bright blue sky, an' people used to say
I never moved an eyelash when my pile was swept away,
I had bouts with Barleycorn before the land went dry,
But I don't take no chances now on Prohibition Rye!"

"I NEVER was no piker, I ain't no piker now,
But every guy has limits, an' this is mine, I vow;
I will not bet years of life against a little drink,
An' any time I get the stuff I pour it down the sink.
An' though I've seen everything, I somehow ain't inclined
To relish going to a home for people who are blind,
Name any game you wanta play, you'll find I won't refuse,
But I won't bet my two good eyes against a shot of booze!"

Suddenly Jack stopped laughing. "Look here, Nella!" His white face made her shrink back. "If this is a joke on your part—or a foolish game on Edna's part to punish me or frighten me, I want it stopped immediately!"

Experienced actress and intriguer as Nella was there was a tremor in her acting of the vicious little comedy Cousins was staging. But Jack was too keyed up to penetrate her pretense.

"Joke, he?" she cried. "Well, if this is a joke then Mark has suddenly changed his spots. I'm getting sick and tired of his everlasting phillandering with every new and pretty face he meets on a train—"

"Just a minute, Nella!" Jack's voice had turned steady and menacing. "You're talking of Edna?"

"Yes, I'm talking of your precious Edna!" Nella stormed. "And you'd better do a little talking to her yourself! Carrie Fulton had fallen ill at Tours and I ran down there to look after her. I expected to stay four days, but I found I could get back the day after I got there. I left Mark presumably safely chaperoned by your precious Edna at that respectable American hotel of ours. But as I know Mark I thought I'd save the cost of a telegram and came back unannounced. I found that your sweet Edna and my chaste Mark had quietly taken a little trip to Fontainebleau the day before."

Jack stepped back as though he were afraid of what he might do to her.

"You don't expect me to believe you?" he asked quietly.

She stepped close to him. "No. But suppose you telephone Hotel de Caen at Fontainebleau and ask for Madame Duryea," she challenged. "She should be in her room now. You'll know her voice."

Jack wavered. Then, wheeling, he rushed into the hotel lobby.

"Get me Hotel de Caen, Fontainebleau, France, please," he said to the telephone operator. "Call me

"GET ME HOTEL DE CAEN, FONTAINEBLEAU, FRANCE, PLEASE!"

as soon as you hear from them."

He paced the lobby for a quarter of an hour. In the reception room Nella waited. By the time an attendant called Jack to the telephone the young fellow was nearly wild with tension.

"Hello," he spoke into the receiver.

"Is this Hotel de Caen?"

"Oui, monsieur," came a Frenchman's reply. "Oo it is that you wish?"

"Madame Duryea. Is she there?"

There was a pause. "Yes, monsieur. She's in her room. Hold ze telephone."

A few moments later Jack heard a voice on the wire.

"Yes? What is it?"

It was the voice of Mark Stanley.

Episode Twelve Her Highness Intervenes CHAPTER I

TOWARD noon the wind changed, and about one o'clock it began to snow.

Eve, exhausted, lay on the sofa in her bedroom. Her stepfather lay on a table in the dance hall below, covered by a sheet from his own bed. And beside him sat Trooper Stormont, waiting.

It was snowing heavily when Mr. Lyken, the little undertaker from Ghost Lake, arrived with several assistants, a casket, and what he called "swell trimmings."

Long ago Mike Clinch had selected his own mortuary site and had driven a section of iron pipe into the ground on a ferny knoll overlooking Star Pond. In explanation he grimly remarked to Eve that after death he preferred to be planted where he could see that Old Harrod's ghost didn't trespass.

Here two of Mr. Lyken's able assistants dug a grave while the digging was still good; for if Mike Clinch was to be underground that season there might be need of haste—no weather prophet ever having successfully forecast Adirondack weather.

Eve, exhausted by shock and a sleepless night, was spared the more harrowing details of the coroner's visit and the subsequent jaunty activities of Mr. Lyken and his efficient assistants.

She had managed to dress herself in a black wool gown, intending to watch by Mike, but Stormont's blunt authority prevailed and she lay down for an hour's rest.

The hour lengthened into many hours; the girl slept heavily on her sofa under blankets laid over her by Stormont.

All that dark, snowy day she slept, mercifully unconscious of the proceedings below.

In its own mysterious way the snow penetrated the wilderness; and out of the desolation of forest and swamp and mountain drifted the people who somehow existed there—a few shy, half wild young girls, a dozen silent, lank men, two or three of Clinch's own people, who stood silently about in the falling snow and lent a hand whenever requested.

One long-haired youth cut hemlock to line the grave; others erected a little fence of silver birch around it, making of the enclosure a "plot."

A gaunt old woman from God knows where aided Mr. Lyken at intervals; a pretty, sulky-eyed girl with her slovenly, red-headed sister cooked for anybody who desired nourishment.

When Mike was ready to hold the inevitable reception everybody filed into the dance hall. Mr. Lyken was master of ceremonies; Trooper Stormont stood very tall and straight by the head of the casket.

Clinch wore a vague, indefinable smile and his best clothes—that same smile which had so troubled Jose Quintana.

Light was fading fast in the room when the last visitor took silent leave of Clinch and rejoined the groups in the kitchen, where were the funeral baked meats.

Eve still slept. Descending again from his reconnaissance, Trooper Stormont encountered Trooper Lannis below.

"Has anybody picked up Quintana's tracks?" inquired the former. "Not so far. An Inspector and two State Game Protectors are out beyond Owl Marsh. The Troopers from Five Lakes are on the job, and we have enforcement men along Drowned Valley from The Scur to Harrod Place."

"Does Darragh know?" "Yes. He's in there with Mike. He brought a lot of flowers from Harrod Place."

The two Troopers went into the dance hall where Darragh was arranging the flowers from his greenhouses.

Stormont said quietly: "All right, Jim, but Eve must not know that he preferred to be planted where he could see that Old Harrod's ghost didn't trespass."

business together later if you like."

After a pause: "That's rather wonderful of you, Jim," said Stormont, "but you don't know what sort of business man I'd make."

"I know what sort of officer you made. . . . I'm taking no chance. . . . And I'll make my peace with Eve—or somebody will do it for me. . . . Is it settled then?"

"Thanks," said Trooper Stormont, reddening. They clasped hands. Then Stormont went about and lighted the candles in the room. Clinch's face, again revealed, was still faintly amused at something or other. The dead had much to be amused at.

As Darragh was about to go, Stormont said: "We're burying Clinch at eleven tomorrow morning. The Ghost Lake Pilot officiates." "I'll come if it won't upset Eve," said Darragh.

"She won't notice anybody, I fancy," remarked Stormont. He stood by the veranda and watched Darragh take the Long Trail through the snow. Finally the glimmer of his swinging lantern was lost in the woods and Stormont mounted the stairs once more, stood silently by Eve's open door, realized she was still heavily asleep, and seated himself on a chair outside her door to watch and wait.

All night long it snowed hard over the Star Pond country, and the late gray light of morning revealed a blinding storm pelted a white robed world.

Toward six o'clock, Stormont, on guard, noticed that Eve was growing restless.

Downstairs the footman of the forest had gathered again; Mr. Lyken was there in black gloves; the Reverend Laoni Smatter had arrived in a sleigh from Ghost Lake. Both were breakfasting heavily.

The pretty, sulky-faced girl fetched a tray and placed Eve's breakfast on it, and Trooper Stormont carried it to her room.

She was awake when he entered. He set the tray on the table. She put both arms around his neck.

"Jack," she murmured, her eyes tremulous with tears. "Everything has been done," he said. "Will you be ready by eleven? I'll come for you."

She clung to him in silence for a while.

At eleven he knocked on her door. She opened it. She wore her black wool gown and a black fur turban. Some of her pallor remained—traces of tears and bluish smears under both eyes. But her voice was steady.

"Could I see Dad a moment alone?" "Of course."

She took his arm; they descended the stairs. There seemed to be many people about but she did not lift her eyes until her lover led her into the dance hall where Clinch lay smiling his mysterious smile.

Then Stormont led her alone there and closed the door.

In a terrific snow-storm they buried Mike Clinch on the spot he had selected, in order that he might keep a watchful eye upon the trespassing ghost of old man Harrod. It blew and stormed and stormed, and the thin, nasal voice of "Rev. Smatter" was utterly lost in the wind. The slanting lances of snow drove down on the casket, building a white mound over the flowers, blotting the hemlock boughs from sight.

There was no time to be lost now; the ground was freezing under a veering and bitter wind out of the west. Mr. Lyken's talented assistants had some difficulty in shaping the mound which snow began to make into a white and flawless monument.

The last slap of the spade rang with a metallic jar across the lake, where snow already blotted the newly forming film of ice; the human denizens of the wilderness filtered back into it one by one; "Rev. Smatter" got into his sleigh, plainly concerned about the road; Mr. Lyken betrayed unprofessional haste in loading his wagon with his talented assistants and starting for Ghost Lake.

CONTINUED CONTROL

OF CONGRESS BY G. O. P. ELECTION RESULT

Majorities Were Cut in Tuesday's Vote Late Reports Show.

BULLETIN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. New York, Nov. 9.—Latest figures today show the next senate will have 52 republicans, 41 democrats and 1 farmer-labor representative with results of two senatorial contests—one in Washington and the other in North Dakota—still undecided.

New York, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press).—Continued republican control of congress, but with a senate majority cut in two and a house majority of 160 slashed to a scant hand full, appeared today as the national result of Tuesday's congressional elections, with returns almost complete. Tight races in the few undecided districts not affecting the general result, and delays in counting, however, threatened to postpone the final figures until tomorrow.

The general picture of Tuesday's storm of ballots was virtually finished early this morning, when belated Montana returns sent the republicans over the top in the house contest. Election of R. Scott Leavitt, republican, in Montana, gave the republicans the 218 votes necessary to control the next house, but even these republican tidings were coupled with news of defeat of Representative McCormick, republican, Montana, by his democratic opponent John M. Evans.

G. O. P. Has 220.

With seven congressional districts in four states—Kansas, North Dakota, Washington and West Virginia—still unreported at 7 o'clock today, the roll in the next house stood: Republicans, 220; Democrats, 205; Socialists, 1; Farmer-Labor, 1; and Independent, 1.

The republican margin promised to be increased slightly in the remaining contests. In the returns to date 76 places now held by republicans had been won without a single counterbalancing democratic loss.

Belated returns did not add to the fifty per cent cut in the senate republican majority sustained in the earlier tallies. They brought down, however, of the re-election of Senator King, democrat, of Utah, over Ernest Bamberger, republican; of Senator Jones, democrat, of New Mexico, and of another democratic victory in Montana, where Burton K. Wheeler was elected over Carl W. Riddick, republican, to succeed Senator Myers, democrat.

Only two senatorial contests remained greatly in doubt, those in Washington, where former Representative Dill, democrat, was leading Senator Poindexter, republican, and in North Dakota, where the democratic candidate, J. E. T. O'Connor, was, with a waning majority as more rural returns came in, leading former Governor Lynn J. Frazier, republican. Non-Partisan League leaders were claiming ultimately Frazier's election.

Veteran is Defeated.

Late returns also brought news of the defeat of another republican veteran of the house, Representative Halvor Steenerson of Minnesota, chairman of the postoffice committee, by a Farmer-Laborite, Knud Wefald. This gave the farmer labor party representation in both branches of congress for the first time. Dr. Henrik Shipstead, farmer-laborite, having defeated Senator Kellogg in Minnesota.

In the few remaining contests the fight was so close that talk of contests, recounts and official counts was rife. Most notable, perhaps, was a statement from Colonel William A. Gaston, that he would demand a recount in his race against Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, republican leader, despite the latter's increased lead, through correction of a tally error, from 1,945 to 8,421. Senator Dupont of Delaware, republican, defeated on the fact of returns, by Thomas F. Bayard, democrat, refused to concede defeat, and his managers said an official recount will be sought.

Senator Poindexter of Washington also asking a re-canvass, while the house race in the remaining Kansas district, the third, was so hot that it was said an official count might be necessary to tip the scales decisively.

REPUBLICANS CARRY STATE TICKET; LOST SOME CONGRESSMEN

Small Will Control Senate Indicated Early This Morning.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Four of the 25 congressional districts in Illinois were in doubt still early today as election returns struggled in.

The democrats retarded the three seats they held in the sixty-seventh congress and gained at least two more through the defeat of Congressman Shaw in the 20th and Congressman Wheeler in the 21st.

Congressman Shaw was defeated by Henry T. Rainey, former veteran democrat of the Illinois delegation who opposed Shaw in the landslide of 1919.

Democrats were leading in three of the four doubtful districts.

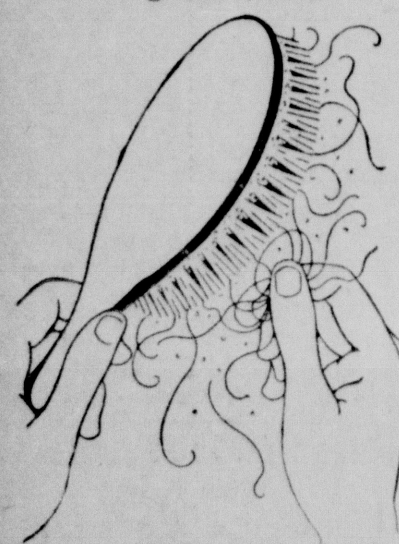

In the third, the 43 missing precincts were in territory outside the city of Chicago, where Congressman Sprout, republican, was expected to pick up in his race with Crane, the democrat. The vote in 240 out of the 243 precincts was: Crane (D) 37,241; Sprout (R) 43,341.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Illinois republicans, on the face of incomplete returns, have carried their state ticket, but lost at least three and perhaps more seats in congress.

The voters of the state have emphatically approved of the $55,000,000 state soldiers bonus law and the return of light wine and beer, both by tremendous majorities, which in the case of the bonus referendum, may exceed 1,000,000 votes, while the beer

FOOLISH TO LET HAIR FALL OUT

35c "Danderine" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff! Delightful Tonic

Quick! Don't wait! Every bald head started with just a few falling hairs and a little dandruff—but soon the hair appeared thin, scraggly, and then the dreaded bald spot. It seems a sin to let hair fall out or tolerate destructive dandruff when you can quickly correct all such hair trouble with a bottle of delightful Danderine. Millions of men and women know the magic of Danderine; how it corrects oily, dandruffy, itching scalps and helps the hair to grow long, thick, strong and luxuriant. Danderine is not sticky or greasy. It is the largest selling hair corrective and tonic in the world because it is not a humbug! Get a bottle at any drugstore.—Adv.

and wine proposal is not far behind.

Congressman John G. Gorman, in the Sixth (Chicago) district apparently has been defeated by James R. Buckley, Dem. Congressman Guy Shaw, in the 20th district, has on the face of incomplete returns, apparently lost to Henry T. Rainey, democrat, whom he defeated in the Harding landslide two years ago.

J. Earl Major, democrat, is apparently the winner in the Springfield district over Congressman Loren E. Wheeler.

Three Are in Doubt

The seats of three more republicans are in doubt. They are Elliott W. Sprout, in the third; E. B. Brooks, 23rd, and Thomas S. Williams, 24th. In the 22nd district Edward E. Miller, republican candidate to succeed Congressman William A. Rodenburg, who is retiring, is running behind Edward E. Campbell democrat.

The two republican candidates for congress-at-large were victorious. Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, candidate to fill the vacancy for congress-at-large caused by the death of her father, the late William E. Mason, also was a winner for the republicans.

have on the face of present returns, elected the republican state ticket, the party lost everything in Cook county, except possibly sheriff and one or two minor offices.

With the exception of Peter Hoffman, republican candidate for sheriff, the party ticket bearing the endorsement of Mayor William Hale Thompson is running from 30,000 to 65,000 votes behind the democrats. Hoffman is ahead of his opponent and is generally conceded the election, as his strong country territory had not been heard from.

Extent of Defeat

The defeat of the Thompson organization was emphasized by poor showing made by County Judge Frank S. Righeimer, running for reelection. The full weight of the mayor's power was thrown behind him, but without success.

The next legislature apparently will be safely republican in both houses, with Governor Len Small controlling more than enough senate seats to prevent any possibility of impeachment proceedings, based on his indictment and trial for alleged misuse of state funds while state treasurer. He was acquitted by a jury at Waukegan last June, but is still facing civil suits to recover interest adjudged to be the state's.

Missouri to Have Woman Legislator

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 8.—Missouri will have a woman legislator, as Mrs. Edward T. Smith was elected yesterday from the second district in St. Louis county. Mrs. Smith, a republican, defeated her democratic opponent, John Eggers, by more than 1,000 votes.
